MORGAN SAYS G.O.P. WOULDN'T STOP TVA

Cites Lack of Patronage as Cause of Continuance Even If Republicans Win.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Jan. 4—Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch college in Yellow Springs, O., chairman of the Tennessee [illegible] authority, predicts that in the event of Republican success in coming elections work will continue on the project.
"Principally because TVA is free from patronage, I think Republicans would keep it," Dr. Morgan said, "And I say in spite of the opposition and [illegible] we have been receiving [illegible] Republican as well as [illegible] terests."
Dr. Morgan spoke at town [illegible]. He expressed satisfaction with the manner in which construction [illegible] project has proceeded.

He said it was his impression that the new deal has greater support in the TVA area than in any other part of the country
"Mainly because we are improving the country, paying decent American wages, and affording decent American labor conditions," he explained

BOARD TO SEEK NEW QUARTERS

Morrow County Election Officials Forced Out by Commissioners in Dispute.

Special to The Star

MT GILEAD, Jan. 4—Forced out of their office in the court house by the Morrow county commissioners this week, the Morrow county board of elections prepared to take action to secure quarters elsewhere.

The board met Thursday and unanimously approved a resolution to rent an office downtown and to equip it with the necessary office desks, tables, safe and files.

They attempted to confer with the county commissioners Thursday before taking any other action but were able to see only the commissioners' clerk, Miss Florence Duke, who disclaimed responsibility for the forcible removal of the board's effects from their second floor office in the courthouse.

The action had been taken without the consent of the election board members and was personally supervised by two of the commissioners, H. C. Harris and Howard Sellers.

The controversy over the quarters arose when the election board refused to permit the federal rural rehabilitation office to use the office when the November election was approaching. The commissioners had assigned it to the use of the federal agency but the election board refused to give up the keys on the grounds that the commissioners were required by law to provide them with quarters.

The ballots were destroyed last week and this week the commissioners renewed the demand for relinquishment of the quarters to the federal agency. The election board members are unanimous in their determination to have suitable quarters and are prepared to carry the matter to the courts if necessary they said at the conclusion of the meeting Thursday.

The effects of the board were moved to a jury room in the courthouse by the commissioners. It is estimated that the expense of equipping a new office somewhere outside the courthouse will be approximately $650.

MILLION IN TAXES AWAITS OPINION

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4—Almost a million dollars in taxes from two utilities concerns awaited today an opinion by the attorney general, to be credited to the income of 1935 or carried over to 1936.

State Treasurer Day had placed an Ohio Gas & Electric Co. check for $190,595.46 and an Ohio Edison Co. check for $370,930.99 in the depository fund. Finance Director M. Ray Allison asserted the checks should have been placed in the state's 1935 general fund. Day replied that the two concerns had made only partial payments and that he had placed the money on deposit pending an attorney general's opinion on legality of deductions made by the utilities.

Day said the sums would be distributed as of the date that the opinion is rendered.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Tonsils.

Recently I told you about diseased tonsils in the adult. Today I want to tell you something about enlarged tonsils and adenoids in the child. What to do with them is an important health problem. There can be no doubt that the neglect of diseased tonsils in a child is a common cause of serious disturbances.

Contrary to the common belief, it is not always advisable to remove enlarged tonsils. Of course, if they are so large that they interfere with normal breathing of the child, they should certainly be removed.

The tonsils are small, soft masses located at the base of the tongue. They lie on each side of the throat and, together with the adenoid tissues, form a ring. When infected, this tonsillar ring becomes swollen and painful. Often swallowing is made difficult.

The adenoids are smaller masses lying in the back of the nasal passage. When these are enlarged free breathing through the nose is prevented. This condition is a common cause of snoring in children.

Whenever the tonsils have pockets of infection they are capable of carrying germs to other parts of the body. This is a menace which must never be overlooked. Often it leads to soreness and swelling of the joints and muscles of the body. Of even greater danger is its possible involvement of the heart.

Diseased tonsils help to undermine the general physical well-being of the child. Due to the absorption of poisons the child becomes undernourished and underweight. There is lowered body resistance and the child becomes extremely susceptible to other infections or "catching" diseases.

Seldom will a child complain of sore throat unless the throat tissues are inflamed or infected. When diseased, the throat is usually red and may be swollen. Sometimes small, white patches may be seen.

Tonsillitis should never be neglected. It requires immediate care, rest in bed, and the advice of a physician. Repeated attacks of tonsillitis constitute a danger signal that must never be ignored.

Diseased tonsils are frequently the cause of colds, sore throats, earache and mouth breathing. Usually the adenoids are enlarged as well. A child who presents any of these symptoms should be taken to a doctor.

He will examine the throat for any signs of inflammation and for enlarged tonsils and adenoids. If operation is advised do not delay. Bear in mind that it is a simple procedure and need cause no alarm or anxiety. Your child's health will be greatly improved by this procedure.

TESTIMONY GIVEN BY SILK MILL OFFICIAL

Tells Story of Depression Collapse in Hearing on Reorganization Proposal.

As hearings continued in New York City yesterday on a proposed reorganization of the Susquehanna Silk Mills, now in trusteeship one of the directors of the mills outlined the growth and subsequent collapse of the organization in depression years, The Associated Press reported.

The mills operate a branch plant in Marion and have nearly a dozen others, mostly in Pennsylvania.

The review of the company's experiences in recent years was given by Ewald Schniewind, a director of the mills, in testimony before Special Master Peter B. Olney, Jr who is conducting hearings on the reorganization proposal of the mills' officials.

Mr. Schniewind explained the mills went into receivership in 1932 due to high plant investment, the expense of meeting raw silk contracts, overhead costs and "far too heavy" capital charges on bonded indebtedness.

He said he took three 10-per cent pay cuts that reduced his salary from $30,000 a year to $19,200.

Mr. Schniewind urged acceptance of the reorganization plan which would permit himself and fellow officers to continue at least temporarily in control of the mills at their present salaries. It also is understood that the mills, under his proposal, would be given the status of a private corporation. It now is in trusteeship, following a conversion from receivership to trusteeship a year ago, it was reported.

The Susquehanna mills grew into one of the largest converters of raw silk in America, doing a maximum business turnover of $30,000,000 in 1929.

The reorganization hearings before the special master were to be continued today.

COLMAN FILM ON OHIO SCREEN

"The Man Who Broke The Bank at Monte Carlo" Is Vehicle.

Ronald Colman's picture "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" a film that is breaking box office records in the big cities opened a four-day run at the Ohio today.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the program will offer two features one a guaranteed laugh hit "Your Uncle Dudley" featuring Edward Everett Horton and the other "Whispering Smith Speaks" in which George O'Brien is starred.

Joan Bennett is Colman's leading woman and the principal male supporting roles are played by Colin Clive and Nigel Bruce. "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" finds the star in one of the debonair roles which he does with such finesse.

Colman enacts the role of an impoverished Russian Prince who runs up his meagre savings as a taxi driver into 10,000,000 francs at the Sporting club in Monte Carlo. He returns to Paris and divides half of his winnings among his fellow expatriates who had added their savings to his original stake. The gambling syndicate at Monte Carlo hires Miss Bennett with whom Colman has fallen in love to lure him back for another session at the tables. She and her companion in deceit Clive lead Colman a merry chase through the gay centers of Europe to Interlaken Switzerland where she falls in love with her victim.

More than 3,000 extras, many of the deluxe classification were used in making the picture. Five hundred of them were used in the Sporting club sequences at the Casino.

"Your Uncle Dudley" the Edward Everett Horton picture was made from the stage play that has been produced on 93 out of every 100 stages in the country. It's a sure fire vehicle for Horton. Lois Wilson, John McGuire, Rosina Lawrence, Alan Dinehart, Marjorie Gateson and William Benedict carry important roles.

The story is an amusing account of a small town booster who proved a personal failure until something occurred to shake him out of his rapt adoration for silver lover cups. Dinehart and Miss Lawrence were in Horton's first starring picture "$10 Raise."

Irene Ware and Kenneth Thomson head the supporting cast of "Whispering Smith Speaks" in which the story of a hard headed and ambitious young chap who wants to prove himself the match of his millionaire father and the logical choice for the hand of a lovely lady is told against a background of railroading.

Gilbert Wright the scenarist who helped to adapt the picture is the son of the famous author Harold Bell Wright.

ROOSEVELT ASKS NEUTRALITY AND FLAYS AUTOCRACY

on to the policy of the good neighbor—the neighbor who resolutely respects himself and because he does so respects the rights of others—a neighbor who respects his obligations and respects the sanctity of his agreements in and with a world of neighbors."

Still Good Neighbors

In the years that have followed that sentiment has remained the dedication of this nation. Among the nations of the great western hemisphere the policy of the good neighbor has happily prevailed. At no time in the four and a half centuries of modern civilization in the Americas has there existed—in any year any decade or any generation in all that time—a greater spirit of mutual understanding of common helpfulness and of devotion to the ideals of self government than exists today in the 21 American republics and their neighbor the Dominion of Canada.

This policy of the good neighbor among the Americas is no longer a hope—no longer an objective remaining to be accomplished—it is a fact, active present pertinent and effective. In this achievement every American nation takes an understanding part. There is neither war nor rumor of war nor desire for war. The inhabitants of this vast area, two hundred and fifty million strong spreading more than eight thousand miles from the Arctic to the Antarctic believe in and propose to follow the policy of the good neighbor. They wish with all their heart that the rest of the world might do likewise.

Others Not Same

The rest of the world—Ah There is the rub.

Were I today to deliver an inaugural address to the people of the United States I could not limit my comments on world affairs to one paragraph. With much regret I should be compelled to devote the greater part to world affairs.

Since the summer of that same year of 1933 the temper and the purposes of the rulers of many of the great populations in Europe and in Asia have not pointed the way either to peace or to good will among men. Not only have peace and good will among men grown more remote in those areas of the earth during this period but a point has been reached where the people of the Americas must take cognizance of growing ill will of marked trends toward aggression of increasing armaments of shortening tempers—a situation which has in it many of the elements that lead to the tragedy of general war.

Some Nations Satisfied

On those other continents many nations principally the smaller ones if left to themselves, would be content with their boundaries and willing to solve within themselves and in cooperation with their neighbors their individual problems both economic and social. The rulers of those nations, deep in their hearts follow these peaceful and reasonable aspirations of their people. These rulers must remain ever vigilant against the possibility today or tomorrow of invasion or attack by the rulers of other peoples who fail to subscribe to the principles of bettering the human race by peaceful means.

Within those other nations—those which today must bear the primary definite responsibility for jeopardizing world peace—what hope lies? To say the least there are grounds for pessimism. It is idle for us or for the others to preach that the masses of the people who constitute those nations which are dominated by the twin spirits of autocracy and aggression are out of sympathy with their rulers that they are allowed no opportunity to express themselves that they would change things if they could.

Don't Have Chance

That unfortunately is not so clear. It might be true that the masses of the people in those nations would change the policies of their government if they could be allowed full freedom and full access to the processes of democratic government as we understand them. But they do not have that access. Lacking it they follow blindly and fervently the lead of those who seek autocratic power.

Nations seeking expansion seeking the rectification of injustices springing from former wars or seeking outlets for trade for population or even for their own peaceful contributions to the progress of civilization fail to demonstrate that patience necessary to attain reasonable and legitimate objectives by peaceful negotiation or by an appeal to the finer instincts of world justice.

They have therefore impatiently reverted to the old belief in the law of the sword or to the fantastic conception that they and they alone are chosen to fulfill a mission and that all the others among the billion and a half of human beings must and shall learn from and be subject to them.

Some May Object

I recognize that these words which I have chosen with deliberation will not prove popular in any nation that chooses to fit this shoe to its foot. Such sentiments however will find sympathy and understanding in those nations where the people themselves are honestly desirous of peace but must constantly align themselves on one side or the other in the kaleidoscopic jockeying for position characteristic of European and Asiatic relations today. For the peace loving nations and there are many of them find that their very identity depends on their moving and moving again on the chess board of international politics.

I suggested in the spring of 1933 that 85 or 90 per cent of all the people in the world were content with the territorial limits of their respective nations and were willing further to reduce their armed forces if every other nation in the world would agree to do likewise.

That is equally true today and it is even more true today that world peace and world good will are blocked by only 10 or 15 per cent of the world's population. That is why efforts to reduce armies have thus far not only failed but have been met by vastly increased armaments on land and in the air. That is why even efforts to continue the existing limits on naval armaments into the years to come show such little current success.

U S Policy Clear

But the policy of the United States has been clear and consistent. We have sought with earnestness in every possible way to limit world armaments and to attain the peaceful solution of disputes among all nations.

We have sought by every legitimate means to exert our moral influence against repression discrimination intolerance and autocracy and in favor of freedom of expression equality before the law religious tolerance and popular rule.

In the field of commerce we have undertaken to encourage a more reasonable interchange of the world's goods. In the field of international finance we have so far as we are concerned put an end to dollar diplomacy money grabbing and speculation for the benefit of the powerful and rich at the expense of the small and the poor.

Twofold Neutrality Plan

As a consistent part of a clear policy the United States is following a twofold neutrality toward any and all nations which engage in wars not of immediate concern to the Americas. First we decline to encourage the prosecution of war by permitting belligerents to obtain arms ammunition or implements of war from the United States. Second we seek to discourage the use by belligerent nations of any and all American products calculated to facilitate the prosecution of a war in quantities over and above our normal exports to them in time of peace.

I trust that these objectives thus clearly and unequivocally stated will be carried forward by cooperation between this congress and the President.

I realize that I have emphasized to you the gravity of the situation which confronts the people of the world. This emphasis is justified because of its importance to civilization and therefore to the United States. Peace is jeopardized by the few and not by the many. Peace is threatened by those who seek selfish power. The world has witnessed similar eras—as in the days when petty kings and feudal barons were changing the map of Europe every fortnight, or when great emperors and great kings were engaged in a mad scramble for colonial empire.

Right Policy Needed

We hope that we are not again at the threshold of such an era. But if face it we must, then the United States and the rest of the Americas can play but one role through a well ordered neutrality to do naught to encourage the contest, through adequate defense to save ourselves from embroilment and attack and through example and all legitimate encouragement and assistance to persuade other nations to return to the ways of peace and good will.

The evidence before us clearly proves that autocracy in world affairs endangers peace and that such threats do not spring from those nations devoted to the democratic ideal. If this be true in world affairs it should have the greatest weight in the determination of domestic policies.

Denounces Autocracy

Within democratic nations the chief concern of the people is to prevent the continuance or the rise of autocratic institutions that beget slavery at home and aggression abroad. In the United States as in the world at large popular opinion is at war with a power-seeking minority.

This is no new thing. It was fought out in the constitutional convention of 1787. From time to time since then the battle has been continued under Jefferson Jackson Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

More recently we have witnessed the domination of government by financial and industrial groups numerically small but politically dominant in the 12 years that succeeded the World war. The present group of which I speak is indeed numerically small and while it exercises a large influence and has much to say in the world of business it does not I am confident speak the true sentiments of the less articulate but more important elements that constitute real American business.

Wanted Power Shift

In March 1933 I appealed to the congress and to the people in a new effort to restore power to those to whom it rightfully belonged. The response to that appeal resulted in the writing of a new chapter in the history of popular government. You the members of the legislative branch and I the executive contended for and established a new relationship between government and people.

What were the terms of that new relationship? They were an appeal from the clamor of many private and selfish interests yes even an appeal from the clamor of partisan interest to the ideal of the public interest. Government became the representative and the trustee of the public interest. Our aim was to build upon essentially democratic institutions seeking all the while the adjustment of burdens the help of the needy the protection of the weak the liberation of the exploited and the genuine protection of the people's property.

Admits Battle Inevitable

It goes without saying that to create such an economic constitutional order more than a single legislative enactment was called for. We had to build you in the congress and I as the executive upon a broad base. Now after 34 months of work we contemplate a fairly rounded whole. We have returned the control of the federal government to the city of Washington.

To be sure in so doing we have invited battle. We have earned the hatred of entrenched greed. The very nature of the problem that we faced made it necessary to drive some people from power and strictly to regulate others. I made that plain when I took the oath of office in March 1933. I spoke of the practices of the unscrupulous money changers who stood indicted in the court of public opinion. I spoke of the rulers of the exchanges of mankind's goods who failed through their own stubbornness and their own incompetence. I said that they had admitted their failure and had abdicated.

Want To Return

Abdicated? Yes in 1933 but now with the passing of danger they forget their damaging admissions and withdraw their abdication.

They seek the restoration of their selfish power. They offer to lead us back around the same old corner into the same old dreary street.

Yet there are still determined groups that are intent upon that very thing. Rigorously held up to popular examination their true character reveals itself. They steal the livery of great national constitutional ideals to serve discredited special interests. As guardians and trustees for great groups of individual stockholders they wrongfully seek to carry the property and the interests entrusted to them into the arena of partisan politics.

They seek—this minority in business and finance—to control and often do control and use for their own purposes legitimate and highly honored business associations. they engage in vast propaganda to spread fear and discord among the people—they would "gang up" against the people's liberties.

Says Autocracy Their Plan

The principle that they would instill into government if they succeed in seizing power is well shown by the principle which many of them have instilled into their own affairs. Autocracy toward labor toward stockholders and toward consumers. Autocrats in smaller things they seek autocracy in bigger things. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

If these gentlemen believe, as they say they believe, that the measures adopted by this congress and its predecessor, and carried out by this administration, have hindered rather than promoted recovery let them be consistent. Let them propose to this congress the complete repeal of these measures. The way is open to such a proposal.

Let action be positive and not negative. The way is open in the congress of the United States for an expression of opinion by yeas and nays. Shall we say that values are restored and that the congress will therefore repeal the laws under which we have been bringing them back? Shall we say that because national income has grown with rising prosperity we shall repeal existing taxes and thereby put off the day of approaching a balanced budget and of starting to reduce the national debt?

Refers to Control

Shall we abandon the reasonable support and regulation of banking? Shall we restore the dollar to its former gold content? Shall we say to the farmer—The prices for your product are in part restored now go and hoe your own row? Shall we say to the home owners and the debtors—We have reduced your rates of interest—we have no further concern with how you keep your home or what you pay for your money that is your affair?

Shall we say to the several millions of unemployed citizens who face the very problem of existence—of getting enough to eat—"We will withdraw from giving you work. We will turn you back to the charity of your communities and to those men of selfish power who tell you that perhaps they will employ you if the government leaves them strictly alone?

Shall we say—Your problem is a local one except that perhaps the federal government as an act of mere generosity will be willing to pay to your city or to your county a few grudging dollars to help maintain your soup kitchens? Shall we say to the children who have worked all day—Child labor is a local issue and so are starvation wages something to be solved or left unsolved by the jurisdiction of 48 states?

Points to Labor

Shall we say to the laborer—Your right to organize your relations with your employer have nothing to do with the public interest. If your employer will not even meet with you to discuss your problems and his that is none of our affair? Shall we say to the unemployed and the aged—Social security lies not within the province of the federal government you must seek relief elsewhere?

Shall we say to the men and women who live in conditions of squalor in country and in city—The health and the happiness of you and your children are no concern of ours? Shall we expose our population once more by the repeal of laws to protect them against the loss of their honest investments and against the manipulations of dishonest speculators? Shall we abandon the splendid efforts of the federal government to raise the health standards of the nation and to give youth a decent opportunity through such means as the Civilian Conservation Corps?

Let these challenges be met. If that is what these gentlemen want let them say so to the congress of the United States. Let them no longer hide their dissent in a cowardly cloak of generality. Let them define the issues. We have been specific in our affirmative action. Let them be specific in their negative attack.

Says Challenge Menacing

But the challenge faced by this congress is more menacing than merely a return to the past—bad as that would be. Our resplendent economic autocracy does not want to return to that individualism of which they prate even though the advantages under that system went to the ruthless and the strong. They realize that in 34 months we have built up new instruments of public power.

In the hands of a people's government this power is wholesome and proper. But in the hands of political puppets of an economic autocracy such power would provide shackles for the liberties of the people. Give them their way and they will take the course of every autocracy of the past—power for themselves enslavement for the public.

Their weapon is the weapon of fear. I have said—The only thing we have to fear is fear itself. That is as true today as it was in 1933. But such fear as they distill today is not a natural fear a normal fear. It is a synthetic manufactured poisonous fear that is being spread subtly expensively and cleverly by the same people who cried in those other days—Save us save us else we perish.

Congress Rights Cited

I am confident that the congress of the United States well understands the facts and is ready to wage increasing warfare against those who seek a continuation of the spirit of fear. The carrying out of the laws of the land as enacted by the congress requires protection until final adjudication by the highest tribunal of the land. The congress has the right and can find the means to protect its own prerogatives.

We are justified in our present confidence. Restoration of national income, which shows continuing gains for the third successive year supports the normal and logical policies under which agriculture and industry are returning to full activity. Under these policies we approach a balance of the national budget. National income increases, tax receipts, based on that income, increase without the levying of new taxes. That is why I am able to say to this, the second session of the 74th congress, that based on existing laws it is my belief that no new taxes, over and above the present taxes, are advisable or necessary.

Says Income Increases

National income increases; employment increases. Therefore, we can look forward to a reduction in the number of those citizens who are in need. Therefore, also, we can anticipate a reduction in our appropriations for relief.

In the light of our substantial material progress, in the light of the increasing effectiveness of the restoration of popular rule I recommend to the congress that we advance that we do not retreat. I have confidence that you will not fail the people of the nation whose mandate you have already so faithfully fulfilled.

I repeat, with the same faith and the same determination my words of March 4, 1933—We face the arduous days that lie before us in the warm courage of national unity with a clear consciousness of seeking old and precious moral values with a clean satisfaction that comes from the stern performance of duty by old and young alike. We aim at the assurance of a rounded and permanent national life. We do not distrust the future of essential democracy."

Quotes Old Philosopher

I cannot better end this message on the state of the union than by repeating the words of a wise philosopher at whose feet I sat many many years ago.

"What great crises teach all men whom the example and counsel of the brave inspire is the lesson: Fear not, view all the tasks of life as sacred, have faith in the triumph of the ideal, give daily all that you have to give, be loyal and rejoice whenever you find yourself part of a great ideal enterprise. You at this moment have the honor to belong to a generation whose lips are touched by fire. You live in a land that now enjoys the blessings of peace. But let nothing human be wholly alien to you. The human race now passes through one of its great crises. New ideas, new issues—a new call for men to carry on the work of righteousness, of charity of courage of patience and of loyalty. However memory brings back this moment to your minds, let it be able to say to you: That was a great moment. It was the beginning of a new era. This world in its crisis called for volunteers for men of faith in life of patience in service of charity and of insight. I responded to the call however I could. I volunteered to give myself to my master—the cause of humane and brave living. I studied. I loved. I labored unsparingly and hopefully to be worthy of my generation."

Hauptmann Case Reporter To Speak Here Monday

Kenneth D Toolil To Give Inside Story of Famous Trial

KENNETH D TOOLIL

Newspaper readers who have been puzzled about some aspects of the Hauptmann case will have a chance to have their curiosity gratified Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock when one of the men who covered the trial of the Brooklyn carpenter will speak on his experiences at Flemington. He is Kenneth D Toolil managing editor of the Ohio State Journal in Columbus who will speak at the Eagles hall on West Center street Monday afternoon.

Mr Toolil before coming back to his native Ohio was a newspaperman in New York and there covered a great many important murder cases such as the Snyder-Gray the Hall-Mills and the Elwell mystery which never came to trial. When the Hauptmann case broke his publisher decided that he should cover it in person and his report is considered one of the ablest that was produced.

He heard every word of the testimony interviewed all of the principals including Colonel Lindbergh and gathered many side lights on the trial that the average newspaper reader would not have encountered.

One pleasing aspect of his lecture is that at the end he opens a 15-minute query period in which he invited questions from anyone present regarding any aspect of the Hauptmann case or any detail of the trial.

Live for Christ in 1936

—— A SERMONETTE ——

BY REV. HARRY G. DEEDS,

Pastor, Greenwood Evangelical Church.

Phil. 4:19—"But my God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus."

WHEN God speaks in Philippians, does he speak concerning physical things as well as spiritual? Will he supply our physical needs as well as our spiritual?

Do not confine God to the spiritual as if he had no power over the physical. God means that He will supply both our spiritual and physical needs providing the ifs of the Gospel are rightly taken care of. If you will meet the demands of the Gospel then you may claim the promises of the Gospel.

If the promise of the text is true, and it is true, and every person in Marion would live before God so as to be able to claim the promise, then there would be few, if any, dependents.

What It Costs To Serve the Devil in Dollars and Cents.

There are many who are suffering want, from whom the Devil is exacting a terribly high toll financially. They can not afford it and if they served the Lord Jesus Christ, would be saved this unnecessary expenditure. It could be spent on necessaries. This is one way God supplies the Christian's need, by stopping this Devil's toll. For instance let us figure a little. Thousands of people pay toll to the Devil at a rate indicated below, and many pay a heavier toll.

Cigarets a day—15 cents; a week — $1.05; a year — $54.75, twenty-five years — $1,368.75. With compound interest it is plain to see that there are thousands of persons in Marion from whom the Devil exacts a comfortable home just for this, as they might claim, privilege. Is it worth it? Many families have two or three in the home paying toll to the Devil at the same rate, meaning three comfortable homes dissipated in this way in one family in twenty-five years.

But that is not all; possibly half the people who use cigarets drink beer or liquors. Say 50 cents a week, which is exceedingly low in most cases. This rate climbs to $650 in 25 years with no interest. Add interest and it will come near the $1,000 mark. Say two in a family consume this amount. That means another comfortable home exacted by the Devil in 25 years.

Again the modern movie gets $1 a week from hundreds of homes in Marion. This again will amount to $1,300 without interest. Another comfortable home exacted by the Devil.

I have not spoken about tobacco used in other forms, and other worldly dissipations, gambling, etc. You can see that there are thousands of homes in Marion in poverty today, because they give the Devil three or four homes every 25 years for the privilege, as they call it, of serving him.

Does It Cost To Serve Christ?

Don't tell me that it costs to serve Christ. It will be one of the greatest saving investments you ever made if you will give Christ your heart and live for him in 1936. Some people say it costs too much to serve Christ. Tell me what it costs. From every angle it is savings.

Not only does it cost the above figure to serve Satan in this life and I have only mentioned the financial side and did not consider the moral side, the social side, the health side, but it costs our hope of Heaven.

While if we serve Christ it means—"That God shall supply all our need according to his riches in Glory by Christ Jesus." It means that our needs on earth shall be supplied and besides all this have a confident hope concerning the next world.

I plead with you in Christ's stead, and, for your own benefit, and for your families' benefit, and for the nation's benefit and cities' benefit, find a spiritual church, ministered to by a spiritual minister, and seek Christ as your Saviour, and join up with that church and begin to work for God and enjoy the fruit of this promise.

Cease being an unnecessary public dependent this new year. Christ will help you if you will come clean for him.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

(Copyright, 1935, by David Garth)

SYNOPSIS: Terry Willett and Allaire West really are in love with each other. Terry just has saved Allaire from blackmail; Allaire has saved Terry's life. But somehow, they can never meet on common ground. Now Terry is flying back to his job in the tropics, and Allaire, at the airport, is trying to persuade him to stay in New York. But Terry fancied that there was something unfriendly in Allaire's manner when she caught him punishing the blackmailer, LaMarr, and cannot be persuaded.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

Horse Show

"OH, WHY," she burst out suddenly, "do you have to go back to South America?"

"Why? Because I have a job to do and nothing in heaven or on earth is going to stop me from trying to finish it. And I most certainly wouldn't stay around here to dance attendance on you like what's-his-name—Perry — on the train."

Of course Terry wouldn't. He had rivers to cross and battles to win, going off to tackle jungle fever, and a big engineering job. Of course he wouldn't let anything stop him.

She wouldn't have wanted him to, but why wouldn't he stay another week, or until tomorrow, or the next plane? Another passenger got on board.

"We're almost ready to leave, sir," the steward called from the open door of the plane.

Allaire twisted a white glove around in her hand. He just didn't give a damn.

"You haven't much use for me, have you, Terry Willett?"

There was an indefinable quality about her, a certain wistfulness, perhaps, that didn't help things at all.

The propellers were turning over. Time to go. He bent forward impulsively and took her hand.

"Take care of yourself," he said swiftly, "and all good luck—"

"But you're coming back—?" she cried.

"How do I know? I never plan past the job in hand. And anyhow," he said, "what difference does it make? You have your path to follow. Stick to it, kid; you've got somebody fine to walk it with you."

The steward tapped him on the shoulder. Willett nodded and picked up his bags. Time to go! The propellers were roaring!

"Give my best to Fox," he shouted above the clamor. "And tell him when he's secretary of state to send out some secretaries to the hot places with some of his sense. Goodbye."

"Goodbye," she echoed, but her voice was lost in the roar.

An instant later the plane roared into action. A terrific backlash of air swirled around her, dragging at her, tearing at her ankles, whipping her face, forcing her back.

Funny, how Terry Willett gave her the same feeling as the one she received when she saw old battlefields, historic homes, and early sun.

Or maybe it wasn't funny, because, after all, he'd gone.

Six weeks may be a long or short time according to its relative value in a person's life. Allaire West came up to the day of the Camberwell Springs Horse Show with the feeling she had packed six months into that period.

On three separate occasions she had been in the news. Once, when her engagement to George Fox was announced in society page headlines. Both she and Fox had denied it the next day, but the spotlight was centered.

And so people gasped when she took her spectacular spill in the Medway Hunt Steeplechase.

And when she flew from Washington to New York in her [illegible] bart, and was prevented from [illegible]ing by a dense fog until she [had] 15 minutes' gas left, finally com[ing] down almost blindly nearly [in] over in a Long Island potato [field], the consensus of opinion was [that] the girl would get herself [killed] unless George Fox did something about it.

Fox came up to the Camberwell Springs nose snow with [illegible] tions of doing something a[bout it].

The show was one of those [red] reel events that hit a high [spot in] the social and army circles [of] Washington. Rayburne W[est was] there and so was his wife, [but] they weren't anywhere ne[ar each] other.

Attention was kindle[d when] Allaire galloped out on [illegible]. Mixed with her art in the [saddle] was a strain of wildness [that fo]cused all eyes upon her.

Fox watched as she [took the] beautiful jumper through [illegible] and thought of her swift [changing] moods of the last week[s]: anger, effervescent gaiety, [affec]tionate camaraderie, restless [im]pulse—. Strange girl!

There were times when [he] thought she loved him, and [times] when he honestly believ[ed she] didn't care a fig about [him] and never would.

That last question was [a] sort of an answer, for [her holi]day leave was almost over [and] she was going to St. Ja[mes to tell] him he'd have to ask her [illegible].

Ray West gripped his [illegible]. "Watch her take this [one]," he exclaimed. "It's a wizard [jump]."

She came streaking up [to] the horse's hoofs pounding [out] like rapid muffled drum[s], fast for one of those de[vastat]ing high hurdles composed of slantwise poles. She swept [into] her take-off, went into the air —and over, horse and girl [in] down in a beautiful rhythm [of part]nership, timing, grace, pre[cision]. Fox watched as she cantered [across] the field.

"Going to the clubhouse," [he] told Ray.

"Congratulate her for me," [said] her father. "It was a good [bit of] Blue ribbon riding."

Fox went into the big lounge of the club. Allaire came shortly afterwards. She had on a polo coat over her [riding] clothes and moved through [the] throng like a booted and sp[urred] Diana.

"You were grand," he said.

"Grand?—oh, oh, th[ank you] George. Let's sit down [some] place?"

They went out on the vera[nda] and Allaire sank into a wicker chair and accepted a [cig]aret with a little sigh.

"I'm supposed to ride again [this] afternoon, but I think I'll ch[uck it]. All the the Westlands horse[s are] nearly dead. Ray's gang [has] ridden them into a lather."

"You're nearly dead too," [he] commented. "You've been [going] from dawn to dawn."

"It's so silly," she said with [dis]gust. "I don't see why you [bother] with me."

Fox looked at her then, [at] the curve of her cheek and [the] droop of her long dark l[ashes] and decided to hell with the [thirty-]day limit. If she didn't know now she never would.

"Will you marry me, Al[laire]?" he asked suddenly.

Allaire and Fox decide, [one] day, to part.

FINED FOR ASSAULT

He was [fined] $100 and costs and committ[ed to] the county jail until the fi[ne is] paid.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Nell Gibbs Doesn't Have To Be Asked To Care for Faith

THE welcoming smile I gave Nell Gibbs was spontaneous and sincere Her appearance so close on the heels of Roderick's ingenious plan to secure her attendance and more especially that of her small daughter Betty at the camp the next day was especially fortuitous

Fitting neatly into the pattern also was the comment she had just made about Katherine's conscience It was evident that she already had been discussing with my kinswoman the problem that was troubling me In my short acquaintanceship with her I had recognized her capability her resourcefulness and her determination as qualities upon which those associated with her could rely in any problem or emergency

You evidently know Katrina's conscience of old I said

And how she retorted with a grimace It kept us all busy when we were in training She was so afraid of not doing her full share of everything that we found her doing part of our work as well And she hasn't changed

Nell Suggests It

I've just had a knock down and drag out argument with her about this trip you're going to take tomorrow I think she's taken the count but I've come over to ask your aid, if she staggers up before she's waved to her corner

I'm with you at every step I said as soon as my aching risibles would permit me to speak But what was the particular question at issue?

Your baby she returned Katrina allowed that she wasn't going on the mountain trip because she neither would take the baby or leave her I agreed that it wasn't particularly cricket to take the baby along but I also asked her what was wrong in letting me take care of the baby while you all were gone

I forestalled her objection that the baby might be afraid of me by telling her that I'd impress your niece into service Then too I understand that for some reason Roderick is to stay at home tomorrow

Yes he is I said and hastily explained the reasons for Roderick's deprivation and also my desire to make his punishment as light as possible because of the gallant manner with which he had taken the discipline already given him

Sense of Humor

Poor little devil! she said with compassionate amusement when I had finished Then she flashed a comprehending glance at me

But my sympathies are with you she amended I know only too well what you're up against in dealing with children of that age My Betty is a handful nearer two as you probably have noticed

I started a polite disclaimer caught the understanding twinkle in Nell Gibbs eyes and realized with relief that she was one of those rare mothers who tempered their love for their children with a sense of humor and therefore could accept with equanimity an opinion that their children though adorable might have faults

You needn't say it she said You know I'm right but if you don't object to my bringing her over with me I think the problem of amusing the baby will be solved Not that I'll ever leave them alone with her for a single second while you're gone she amended hastily You may count on that

Take No Chances

I'm not worried on that score I replied stoutly and mendaciously We sometimes leave her alone with Junior and Roderick

So should I if I were in your place or Katherine's she retorted promptly But Roderick and Junior are known quantities In combination Betty and Roderick, unknown I am ninety nine per cent sure that it would be perfectly all right to leave them alone with Faith but I prefer to reckon with that one per cent if you don't mind

It's in your hands I said, with my only anxiety secretly relieved —though I was fairly sure that shrewd Nell Gibbs had fathomed my feeling of anxiety

"Then will you go over and tell Katherine so?" she asked "No Texas mule ever had anything on our Katrina, and she probably has come out of her grogginess by this time to think things over You're the only one who can flag her"

In explaining the essay contest he announced that the Caledonia Legion post, together with the auxiliary organization, would furnish additional awards to winners there.

LINDBERGHS INTEND TO RETURN SHORTLY

Colonel and Family Greeted at Morgan Home in Wales; Coming Home Before April.

By The Associated Press

LLANDAFF, Wales, Jan. 4—The Morgan home offered a welcome today to the family of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, but a spokesman announced the visit would be only temporary and that the Lindberghs intended to return to America before April.

"There is no question of them remaining after the Hauptmann case is disposed of and the publicity dies down," said the spokesman for the family of J. L. Morgan, father of Aubrey Niel Morgan, brother-in-law of Mrs. Lindbergh.

Col. Lindbergh, his wife and 3-year-old Jon, rested by a four-day stay in the seclusion of a suite of Liverpool's Adelphi hotel after their 10-day Atlantic crossing from New York, journeyed through the Welsh mountains by automobile toward this suburb of Cardiff, on the coast of southern Wales.

After stopping over night at an undisclosed inn between Liverpool and Cardiff, the Lindberghs were expected to arrive here late today or tomorrow.

"They intend to remain about six weeks and then go to London, the south of France, Sweden and finally return to the United States," the Morgan representative said.

STEEL EMPLOYMENT HITS NEW HIGH MARK

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—Employment in the steel industry in November established a new high level for 1935.

The American Iron & Steel institute reported a total of 438,370 employes were at work during the month, an increase of 15 per cent over the same month last year and the highest total since June, 1934, when employes numbered 455,966.

Total payrolls of $49,170,940 in November were almost 50 per cent higher than the $32,937,099 paid in November, 1934.

their is need for poor relief. Mr. Abel has adopted as his campaign slogan, "Help a Needy Family."

Use of the funds will not be confined to relief clients, but will be available to any families for clothing, especially for school children," Mr. Abel said. "This is particularly true in large families of six to eight children where the father may be employed on a WPA project at $48 a month or on a part time job in private industry." Their small wages are inadequate to take care of all their needs, which include clothing, food, shelter, fuel, utilities and medical expense, the director explained.

When a relief client is placed on a WPA job or accepts a job in private industry he is removed from relief rolls and it is impossible to supplement his small salary with relief money. Owing to the extreme weather Mr. Abel has received hundreds of urgent requests for aid and these cannot be met even though investigation reveals a real need.

Mr. Abel has estimated that not less than $5,000 will be needed during the winter and spring months for the extra aid his fund will supply.

The relief director received $164.50 in contributions to his pre-Christmas fund for children's clothing. This amount, which was contributed for the most part by acquaintances of Mr. Abel, is virtually exhausted. The few dollars remaining will form the basis for the now popular subscription fund. Residents of the city and county are urged to get their contributions in as quickly as possible that immediate relief may be given to families investigation shows are badly in need of it.

DOCTOR KILLED WHILE ON FAKE BABY CALL

him to treat a wounded companion. The possibility of revenge on the part of a disgruntled patient was investigated.

The possibility that a narcotic addict might be the slayer was partly discredited when it was pointed out Dr. Peacock, a pediatrician, seldom used narcotics in the treatment of children.

Acting Capt. Martin McCormick of the Summerdale police station said he had learned the slain physician was connected with the federal narcotic division and that addicts might have lured him to his death to prevent his testifying against them.

Dr. Peacock, 40, was regarded as a skillful member of his branch of the medical profession. He had been practicing for 10 years since his graduation from Rush Medical college.

His widow, Mrs. Ruth Peacock, reported him missing yesterday. She said he had been about to retire when he received the telephone call to treat a sick child.

He scribbed the address "8435 North Whipple street" and the name "Z. Smale" on a desk pad, dressed hurriedly and drove away in his car.

Last night the police found his body in his car just a short distance from his supposed destination.

KNOX OFFERS 7 POINT RECOVERY PROPOSAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — Accepting President Roosevelt's defiant challenge to new deal critics, Frank Knox, Chicago publisher and Republican presidential possibility, proposed today a seven point federal program which he said was a positive alternative for present policies.

In a statement handed to reporters, Knox said the President's annual message to congress, was "an undisguised political speech by the prospective candidate of the Democratic party."

"Specifically candidate Roosevelt demanded that his opposition provide an explicit alternative program if they were dissatisfied with the fruits of the new deal," he said. "That is not difficult. Here is one:

"1. Immediate drastic reduction of governmental expenses.

"2. A sound currency to be maintained at all hazards.

"3. Maintenance of the national credit by a federal budget annually balanced.

"4. Unemployment and old age insurance under state laws.

"5. The removal of the government from all fields of private enterprise.

"6. Opposition to the unsound policy of restricting agricultural production.

"7. Strict and impartial enforcement of the anti-trust laws to prevent monopoly."

the American people know is true."

Rep. Marcantonio, Republican of New York:

"I'm glad he knocked out the Liberty leagues, but I'm a little worried about his talk regarding prosperity and decrease of relief appropriations."

Sen. Johnson, Republican of California:

"Bully."

Sen. Shipstead, Republican of Oregon:

"Excellent."

Sen. Clarence, Republican of [illegible]:

"A great speech. It has to be read."

ROOSEVELT ADDRESS OPENS VOTE DRIVE

police barred an eager throng which tried to crowd in on the heels of the long procession of senators who walked over from their own chamber just before the speech.

Greeted by Applause

Two minutes of applause, shouts and stamping greeted the President as he appeared on the rostrum, removed his wrist watch and laid it on the table before beginning.

As he proceeded, laughter broke out at one point. This was when he mentioned that this was the annual message on the "state of the union." The laughter was promoted by the realization that this was far different from past messages bearing that title.

With veterans' organizations pressing for quick action on immediate cash payment of the bonus and some new deal leaders in congress seeking a "compromise," the President did not mention the bonus issue.

Referring only briefly to legislative and fiscal affairs, he said that business prospects were good; that the nation is approaching a balanced budget; that there is prospect of cutting relief appropriations and that on the basis of "existing laws" no new taxes are advisable.

Budget Talk Brings Roar

The mention of budget balancing brought shouts of derision from the Republican side; roars of approval from the Democrats.

One passage of the speech led some quarters to expect that the new deal may possibly seek some method of preventing its legislation from being tied up in lower federal courts. This passage said: "The carrying out of the laws of the land as enacted by the congress requires protection until final adjudication by the highest tribunal of the land. The congress had the right and can find the means to protect its own prerogatives."

Some wondered whether a move was in prospect to revise procedure in lower federal courts in constitutional disputes. The justice department has complained of the "multiplicity" of suits in these lower courts, which have tied up enforcement of much new deal legislation.

Cummings Says It's Fair Guess

Attorney General Cummings, asked if some move was in prospect, said "draw your own conclusion; it is a fair guess."

Blasting at his critics, President Roosevelt said "I recommend to the congress that we advance; that we do not retreat."

"Within democratic nations," he said, "the chief concern of the people is to prevent the continuance, or the rise, of autocratic institutions that beget slavery at home and aggression abroad. In the United States, as in the world at large, popular opinion is at war with a power-seeking minority.

"This is no new thing. It was fought out in the constitutional convention of 1787.

He accused "determined groups" of engaging in "vast propaganda to spread fear and discord among the people—they would 'gang up' against the people's liberties."

Challenges Repeal of Laws

If they seized power, he said, they would put into effect "autocracy" toward the people. Demanding that they be consistent, he challenged them to advocate the "complete repeal" of such measures as existing taxes, regulation of banking, dollar devaluation, farm relief, collective bargaining legislation, social security and health laws.

"Shall we say to the several millions of unemployed citizens who face the very problems of existence—of getting enough to eat—'We will withdraw from giving you work, we will turn you back to the charity of your communities and to those men of selfish power who tell you that perhaps they will employ you if the government leaves them strictly alone?'" he asked.

Hitting his enemies again, he said, "Give them their way and they will make the course of every autocracy of the past—power for themselves; enslavement for the public."

The President concluded with a quotation from his old Harvard professor of philosophy, the late Josiah Royce. It was in praise of "faith in life, of patience in service, of charity and of insight."

Harding Beats Shelby in N. C. O. Tilt; St. Mary Loses

PRESIDENTS SCORE 40-25 VICTORY IN FIRST LEAGUE GAME

Sixth Straight Win of Season for Bohyermen; Meet Mansfied Next.

BY CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Writer

Playing a fast and clever game, the Harding High Presidents successfully opened the 1935-36 North Central Ohio basketball season last night by defeating the Shelby Whippets, 40 to 25. The invasion of the Richland county court was the first league tilt for the Bohyermen but the victory was the sixth consecutive of the season.

The Harding team tallied the first scores of the opening quarter and retained a comfortable margin throughout the contest. At the end of the first period the Marion team led, 13 to 5, and at the half they again held an eight-point advantage.

Shelby Attack Repulsed

Early in the third period the Shelby team made its only assault on the Harding lead. A burst of speed netted the Whippets one basket, followed by two successful free throws. The Whippets then trailed by only four points. The Presidents displayed flash and accuracy under pressure and scored three baskets in quick succession to halt the Whippet attack.

Many followers of the Harding team journeyed to Shelby to see the opening N. C. O. contest. Groups made up of vacationing college students gave added enthusiasm and spirit to the large crowd. Shelby's organized cheering section presented a touch of color to the contest.

Bill Tierney and Rex Frazier piled up most of Harding's 40 points. Running mates at the forward positions, the two men collected a total of 12 goals and two free throws. Tierney was successful with seven shots from the field and Frazier made five baskets. Both players made one foul shot each. Ruby, the President's tall, lanky, center made five fouls in seven attempts.

Gates Shines for Shelby

Gates, forward for the Shelby quintet, was outstanding performer of his team. Hurried by the superb guarding of the Marion players, he missed often but succeeded in registering on six action shots. Hart, senior lettorman for Shelby, is perhaps one of the cleverest guards the Harding team has opposed so far this season. Picked as an all-N. C. O. football player, he looms as an eligible candidate on the all-conference cage squad.

The teams opened in fast style and Harding chalked up seven points before Shelby was able to score. Frazier's sucker shot was the initial score of the game and Gates' basket erased the zero from the Whippet's scoring column.

Faught brought the score to 8 to 2 as he made a free throw. Hart's foul and fielder cut Marion's lead to three points and Harding took time out. Dribbling in from the foul line, Frazier scored and Faught added a foul. Tierney flipped a one-hand shot through the hoop as the period ended with the Presidents leading 13 to 5.

Faught intercepted a Shelby pass at the opening of the second stanza and dribbled close to the basket to make a clean sucker shot. Ruby's shot was good. Conroy was substituted for Evans. The teams exchanged points as Gates and Frazier each tallied from the field. Ruby added a point from the foul line and a goal by Gates cut Marion's lead to 18 to 9. Frazier cancelled another basket by Gates and Ruby made a free throw. The half-time count stood at 21 to 13 when Gates tossed in his fourth basket during the period.

Unsteady as Half Opens

A little unsteady at the opening of the second half, the Presidents permitted Shelby to cut Marion's lead to three points. Tierney sank two baskets and Ruby and Evans tallied foul shots to put Marion into a 27 to 19 lead. Gates was banished from the game as he committed the fourth personal foul and Haun was substituted. Hartman and Tierney each tallied fielders and Hart left the game on the fourth foul. He was replaced by Wrightsman. Shelby took time out. Tierney and Faught missed from the free throw line as the third period ended with Marion leading 31 to 21.

There followed a swift exchange of scoring, Harding gaining one point and leading 35 to 24 Tierney added a basket and a free throw as last minute substitutes were sent in for Harding. Sharrock, Ault and Leffler saw action in the varsity game during the final minutes. Conroy tallied the final score on a set shot from the side of the floor.

The Harding team will be idle tonight but will begin practice activities early in the week in preparation for another N. C. O. contest next week. The Presidents will meet the strong Mansfield quintet on the Shovel floor here next Friday night.

One team remains undefeated in each division of the county basketball league today following a stiff round of competition for 19 rural schools last night.

The Prospect High boys' team defeated LaRue, 32 to 21, to retain undisputed leadership of the loop with seven consecutive victories. In the girl's division of the race, the Waldo team holds high honors with no defeats in five games. Waldo won over Caledonia 23 to 10 on the Caledonia court last night. The Pleasant team, undefeated until last night, fell before the Kirkpatrick lassies, 20 to 16.

After trailing by two points at half-time the Keller-coached Prospect High team, playing on its home floor, stepped out fast to take a commanding lead in the third period. Scoring 15 points to their opponents' four in that period they held the winning margin to the final whistle. Bricker, Prospect forward, was particularly effective from the field, getting six goals and four fouls. His teammate, M. Thomas, center, scored four fielders and three fouls. Ruckman, LaRue's star cageman, was held to four baskets and two free throws.

Sager, playing center and forward for the LaRue girls' team, helped her squad to a 19 to 13 victory over the Prospect girls by registering six goals and two fouls.

The Caledonia girls team, playing at Waldo, failed in the attempt to halt the victory march of its opponents. Waldo outscored its opponents in every period of the game and finished on the long end of a 23 to 10 score. Scoring honors on both teams were evenly divided among the players.

The Waldo boys team increased its standing from 250 per cent to the .400 mark by winning over Caledonia, 29 to 16.

Pleasant's previously unbeaten girls team played on its home court and suffered a 20 to 16 defeat at the hands of the Kirkpatrick girls. The winning team moved from sixth place in the standing to fourth position while Pleasant dropped to undisputed second place with five victories and one defeat. The work of J. Kennedy, who scored four goals and five fouls for Kirkpatrick, was outstanding.

The boys game, however, was a different story, as the Pleasant team ran rampant and hung up a 52 to 16 victory over Kirkpatrick. Pleasant now holds fourth position with a .666 average.

The Claridon boys' 38 to 19 victory over Martel moved them into fourth place in the league standings. Playing on their home floor the Claridon boys staged an early scoring rally which gave them a half-time advantage of 21 to 7. Lashey scored 15 of the Claridon points, closely followed by Trout who tallied 14.

Wilkins and Kelley of the Martel girls squad scored 10 and 8 points, respectively, as their team won over Claridon, 21 to 12.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL QUINTET OVERCOME BY DELAWARE TEAM

Overtime Period Decides Contest With Schools Tied After Four Quarters of Play.

Marion St. Mary High cagers yielded a 21 to 17 victory to their namesakes in a game at Delaware last night. The game went into an overtime period when four quarters of play ended with the teams in a 17-17 deadlock.

The game was nip and tuck throughout the entire four quarters, with the Marion team holding a slight advantage during most of the contest. The parochial team from Delaware succeeded in knotting the count in the final minutes of the fourth quarter and the tie score sent the teams into a thrilling overtime period.

Reinhardt and Gallyzo each succeeded in registering a field shot for the Delaware team and the invading Irish team was unable to overcome the four point lead in the few remaining seconds of the overtime period.

St. Mary held a 6 to 2 advantage at the end of the first stanza and at the half 13 to 7. Coach Bob Kelly's first team relinquished its lead during the third period but the lead changed hands often during the remainder of the game.

Reid made three goals and two fouls and Schuler added two baskets to account for most of the Marion team's points.

The Irish squad will see action again tonight when it plays to a home game with Upper Sandusky at the Shovel gymnasium.

FIRPO TO RETIRE FROM RING

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 4—Two more fights, the veteran middleweight Henry Firpo averred today, and he will check in his padded mitts and check out a billy club. Provided, of course, the Louisville police department gives him a job. Looking back over an 11 year fistic career Firpo counted up 283 fights, and cogitated that you can't go on in his racket forever. Firpo, born Henry Hintleman, was a leading contender for the middleweight championship in 1932. The only two fighters Firpo wants to beat before retirement are Bobby Mathews, to even an old score, and George Nichols, former light heavyweight champion.

CONFERENCE RACES START

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4—Three conference races get under way in Ohio tonight—with fireworks expected on all fronts. Wisconsin's Badgers come here to open the Big Ten basketball season with Ohio State's midget "dark horses" of the conference. Over in Dayton the Buckeye loop breaks the ice with Miami and Dayton at each other's throat. Up on the lake two Cleveland rivals, Case Tech and John Carroll, reopen the Ohio conference battles. Some other games for the fun of it tonight are Ohio university at Akron Goodyear, Oberlin at the University of Buffalo, and Ohio Wesleyan at Western Reserve.

"Tippy" Dye, Star Athlete At Ohio State, Talks Here

Attends Y. M. C. A. Meeting of College Students Home for Holidays.

"Tippy" Dye, Ohio State football and basketball luminary, spoke before a group of more than 50 persons who attended the first annual "Home from College Luncheon," held yesterday at the Y. M. C. A.

At quiet and unassuming an after-dinner speaker as he is powerful on the gridiron and crappy on the basketball court Dye evidently believes in the adage that "action speaks louder than words." His remarks were limited to two sentences.

Invited as a guest of honor by Layton Shaffer, a Marion student at Ohio State, Dye was introduced to the luncheon group. He said he "appreciated the opportunity to be present" and that "it is a wonderful plan for college men from the same home town to get together during their holiday vacation and become better acquainted." John Moore, captain of the 1935 Ohio State university track team was also present and spoke briefly to the group.

The luncheon program was planned and directed by E. N. Hale, executive secretary of the Y. All Marion youths who are now attending college were invited, as were Y and school officials. James E. Frew offered prayer at the opening of the program. Following Tippy Dye's talk, brief remarks were made by C. A. Hudson, superintendent of schools and K. H. Marshall, principal of Harding High school. Mr. Hale acted as toastmaster.

Marion guests who attended the luncheon were, Judge Hector Young, Supt. C. A. Hudson, K. H. Marshall, James Frew, A. W. Kelley, Clarence Lenz and Robert Stout.

MARION, MT. VERNON AND ASHLAND WIN IN N. C. O. OPENERS

Shelby, Mansfield and Galion Are Losers as Conference Play Starts.

Marion, Ashland and Mt Vernon jumped to an early lead in the North Central Ohio conference by winning opening games played last night. Marion won a league tilt at Shelby. Ashland's victory was scored at the expense of the strong Mansfield High quintet on the Mansfield floor by a count of 27 to 26. Mt Vernon defeated Galion in a close contest at Mt. Vernon which ended 21 to 19.

After leading for the most of three quarters, the Mansfield team was weakened by the loss of three first string men who were ruled from the game after committing four personal fouls each. Ashland grasped the opportunity and put on a scoring attack which gave them the lead in the final four minutes of play. The Mansfield cagers fought to the last second and came within a point of deadlocking the score as the final whistle ended the game. At the end of the first period Mansfield led 8 to 7 and at the half held a 14 to 10 lead. The fourth period began with Mansfield still in the lead 21 to 17.

Mt. Vernon's two-point victory over Galion was scored after the winning team had held a slight margin throughout the contest. Playing at Mt. Vernon, the Galion squad trailed for three periods and then rallied in the final quarter to come within a point of tying the score. The spurt was short-lived, however, as Mt. Vernon's team displayed a smart brand of ball to finish the game with a two-point lead.

Junior varsity players of Harding High school scored a 39 to 20 victory over the Shelby reserve team in a preliminary to the varsity league match between the two schools at Shelby last night.

Roop, forward, and Everly, center, registered five goals each and Roop succeeded in one foul attempt. Other high scorers were Wintermute and Williams who sank three and two goals respectively.

The junior President team has won four of its five games this season. Last year the team shared the N. C. O. championship with the Ashland squad.

The reserves will see action again next Friday night when they meet the junior varsity team from Mansfield High in a league game here at the Shovel gymnasium.

$45,000,000 in Pennies.

The average resident of Ohio contributed approximately $7 to the state in sales taxes during 1935, according to the state treasurer's office. Approximately $45,000,000 was collected during the 48 weeks the tax was collected. The total in 1936 is expected to reach at least $50,000,000.

There are many arguments against the sales tax. Throughout Ohio and throughout the United States there are many persons who speak of the tax in extremely strong and resentful language. They assert unequivocally that it is contrary to good principles and should not be tolerated for an instant.

It is the custom to apologize for the sales tax. The very fact that it produces so much revenue is used to condemn it. Scarcely anyone dares to speak of it as a tax measure for permanent use; it is, rather, spoken of as an emergency measure which will be abandoned as soon as a better tax can be devised.

But the most impressive thing about the sales tax in Ohio, which is fortunate in having a system of collection that is about as painless as possible, is the fact that it works. The state wanted a way to get revenue quickly and with a minimum of fuss and bother. The retail sales tax has done what it was supposed to do.

From the standpoint of social principle and perhaps from the standpoint of sound economic practice there may be better taxes than the retail sales taxes. However, from the standpoint of collection the tax has no superior. It produced $7 per capita in the state in 48 weeks, a feat which no other tax could have performed half so painlessly or so quickly.

Test Run.

There is a roar in Louisiana and the smell of straining machinery. The late Huey Long's greatest accomplishment, the political organization which enabled him to be dictator of his state, is on a test run.

The question in Louisiana and everywhere else is whether or not the Louisiana machine can be operated successfully now that its master is dead. The Bluebird, another mighty machine, would be nothing without its creator and operator, Sir Malcolm Campbell.

The difficulty is, of course, that Sen. Long left no successor. There are many men who would like to take his place, but no single one of them is conceded the right to be a second kingfish. That is one of the chronic weaknesses of dictatorship.

Persons who predicted that Huey Long would become a martyr due to the circumstances of his death are not able to claim quick results. Instead of ascending to martyrdom, the voluble dictator seems to be slipping backward into an oblivion which no one suspected of being so close to him.

That is not true of Louisiana, however. Memories of what he meant to the state are still green. The sixteenth of this month his bereaved friends and skeptical opponents will dedicate the new Huey Long bridge across the Mississippi at New Orleans. Until Jan. 21, election day, the state will hear him praised and cursed countless times by politicians. His place in history still is problematic.

Leap Year.

As a convenience in marking time, leap year has a dual aspect. It is, first of all, blessed by the calendar makers, who would be helpless without it. Second, it is an exceedingly handy tool in the employment of those persons who recall events by years.

Among the many events which will be introduced in the future with the explanation "It happened in 1936—I remember because it was leap year" will be a great many marriages. Within the knowledge of man the origin of the custom of encouraging female aggressiveness in leap year has no explanation. It seems to be one of the things that just happened. Probably, it seemed that the occurrence of 29 days in February provided a good excuse to regularize a practice which was inevitable.

In a reformed calendar, leap year's extra day would be inserted between the end of June and the beginning of July. It would be identified with nothing, except itself. Like year-end day, which would be placed between December and January, it would have an independent position in the calendar. February, instead of being the sport among the 12 months, would be as regular as any of the others. It always would have 30 days. Only January April, July and October would have more than that. Their 31 days would occur at the end of quarters and halves. When and if the country decides to be sensible about its calendar, the loss of Feb. 29 as something to look forward to and back upon will be one of the heaviest sacrifices entailed in the reform.

Ferment.

Sen. Borah's aggressive drive for Republican delegates sympathetic to him and to his political views has started a ferment in the Republican party. The unity which the party needs to make itself an effective opposition to the Roosevelt administration is threatened with a dangerous schism.

There are many aspects to the situation which has developed. By considering all of them, rather than one at the expense of the other the observer who strives to be more of an analyst than a partisan may create for himself a complete picture of a great political struggle which affects both of the major political parties.

Only one thing is certain about Sen. Borah's bid for party leadership. He is trying to prevent complete control of the Republican party by its conservative leaders. He is not known to be an aspirant for the nomination. He is important as a spokesman for a section of opinion. As a possible candidate for the presidency, he is not important as yet.

Fortunately, he has closed the issue between conservatism and liberalism in plenty of time to permit thorough discussion before the Republican convention next June. A compromise is not impossible. The party is in a condition where it can adopt new policies. Both extremes, the conservative and the liberal, have something to gain by heeding the other.

Democrats are enjoying the struggle. They hope Sen. Borah will split the Republican party wide open. If either faction is permitted to prevail at the expense of the other, this probably will happen. But while Democrats are chuckling at Republican discomfiture, what is their own party's condition and its prospect for unity?

On Jan. 25, Alfred E. Smith, spokesman for the conservative wing of the Democratic party, is expected to demonstrate in a speech under the auspices of the American Liberty league the depth and width of the chasm between the extremes of thought in the party in power. Democrats, too, have an old guard and a liberal faction opposing it.

In other words, both major parties are in the same predicament. But the Democratic party has an additional trouble which the Republican party does not have. Its so called liberal faction is in complete control of the party's machinery. The Republican party is in the throes of a ferment which may culminate eventually in a new political substance. The Democratic party definitely has rejected its conservative faction. The Democratic old guard has been alienated from the party by the policies of the Roosevelt administration. It has been embittered by neglect.

Sen. Borah's struggle for recognition of his views and Alfred E. Smith's bitter objection because his views aren't being recognized rightly should be viewed as examples of one and the same thing—the clash between conservatives and liberals in United States politics. It is a clash which affects both parties. The Republican party, which still is in position to make moderate concessions to extremists of both types, has the better chance to escape a disastrous schism, it would seem. The Democratic party, which is bound to a leadership that is committed definitely to repudiation of its conservative members, must stand on the record of the Roosevelt administration. Compromise, without loss of honor, is impossible.

Republican harmony in the presidential campaign is problematic. Democratic harmony, however, is impossible.

We Know Recovery Must Be and Can Be Achieved Within Constitution, Lawrence Says.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—This is the reason of prophecy, of wishful thinking, of realistic analysis. What kind of business year will 1936 bring? Better the questions should be. What kind of year ought 1936 be made? What can we do to make a year of substantial progress notwithstanding the fact that it will be a year of political polemics?

The coming year will differ from the last year in at least one important respect. We know now something of our bearings. We have a chart to steer by. We know that recovery must be achieved within the Constitution and we know, moreover, that it can be.

It will be conceded, at the outset, that most people are not partisans. They would as soon see prosperity restored under a Democratic as a Republican administration. They have little prejudice against personalities as such. They are at heart without political selfishness. For this reason one can project policies in the hope that the common sense elements in the American nation will examine proposals on their merits and with a sincere desire to see progress and a reconciliation of conflicting purposes rather than perennial bickerings in public affairs.

There are certain things that ought to be done. Whether the politicians in public office will do them is not material. For they can be compelled by an enlightened public opinion to accept sound programs of governmental policy.

The basis of American prosperity is a balanced interchange of goods and services whether in the home market or in the supplementary markets abroad.

Interchange is but another word for "exchange." Barriers to exchange in domestic United States are not as readily recognizable as tariffs and quotas and monetary tinkering in the interchange of goods between countries. But obstacles to the free interchange of goods inside the United States are none the less real. They are governmental.

To promote the free exchange of goods, there must be a minimum of interference by agencies of government. What shall the line of demarcation be? It is a simple problem if the politicians would only care to recognize it. Fraud, dishonesty, exploitation by monopoly are clearly discernible abuses in any economic system and should by federal and state law be punished and eradicated.

But government intrusion to correct economic inequalities, to play one region against another, to set one class against another, to seek favor from one group of voters at the expense of the other—all in the name of social reform—is to retard and hold back an increased exchange of goods.

Concretely, the federal government has erected several barriers to the enlarged volume of business transactions. Enumeration of them suggests the very reasons for their modification or elimination.

1. The securities exchange act is an excellent "blue-sky" law to punish fraud in the sale of securities and one that has long been sought to prevent swindling of the public. But a blue-sky law is one thing and a law to give the federal government the right to control the allocation of capital is something else.

Amendment of the existing law to provide specific and not vague safeguards against misrepresentation in the sale of stocks and bonds is essential to the restoration of a flow of new capital into business.

2. Government interference with the free exchange of services between employers and employes must be abolished. The Wagner labor act in its present form is an impediment to recovery and should be amended to provide federal conciliation only where it can be helpful.

3. The processing tax is a barrier to the increased consumption of foodstuffs in America. Amendment of the AAA to provide for the unrestricted production of farm commodities and for cooperative disposal of exports at a price below the domestic level so that America may meet world competition in surpluses is a prerequisite to any sound agricultural policy.

4. Establishment of relief on a nonpolitical basis is imperative.

5. A real survey of unemployment is needed as well as a scientific study of the origin of labor displacement.

6. The utility industry is a key factor in recovery. It can spend billions of dollars for raw materials and for improvement and extension of power plants. The nation's use of electricity is increasing. A program for regulation of holding companies through federal and state cooperation is practicable and desirable.

7. Federal finances can and should be put on a sound basis. Otherwise investors hesitate to make long-term commitments for anything, and speculation based on an anticipation of inflation prevents the satisfactory exchange of goods and services.

8. Our tax system is sloppy. The federal government and the states overlap and duplicate tax collections. The administration of the whole is subject to suspicion unfortunately of punitive activity related to politics. This is something that can be cured only by an aroused public opinion.

9. Government competition prevents proper exchange of goods by erecting barriers of present and future uncertainty for owners and managers of properties. Government lending is not justified except in emergencies and when private capital is unavailable. There exists now no need for new adventures in government lending.

10. The Guffey act ought to be amended. The coal industry has in it units that involve high cost operations and they should be permitted to combine and consolidate so that low cost operations will be possible. This would mean lower costs to the consumer.

Psychological Element

The last barrier is psychological. Most business men assume that a presidential campaign year must mean indecision. Normally this might be true. Today the reverse should be true. If business can prove that what it has been able to accomplish since the supreme court decision of May 27, 1935, was possible in spite of government experimentation rather than because of it, if business can demonstrate that it can stand on its own feet and does not need a government crutch, the principal argument of the radicals and the government ownership groups will disappear.

Certainly if business stops its planning

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK

By R. J. Scott

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — Mr. Garner, the vice president, did the fixing for President Roosevelt's night radio appearance before congress. He called the Republican bosses, Snell and McNary, into his private room. The matter was brought up in a most casual and congenial way.

Some dissatisfied Republicans have been muttering ever since that Garner put one over on them. There is considerable awe on the inside for the type of congenial poker played by him.

The fact is Messrs. Snell and McNary are no novices at that game. They know a flush beats a straight, but a four-flush is valueless and sometimes costly. That is what a threat of fight from them would have been. They could have done nothing effective about it.

The ensuing wail of protest was not as grief-laden as it sounded. Wisest of the Republican poker artists were well satisfied privately to get the opportunity to show their grief.

Technique

Some of the snappy phrases used by Mr. Roosevelt in his message were his own. Others came from his multitude of advisers. This is the way he works:

Whenever he has a big speech to make, or a general message to prepare for congress, he calls upon a variety of sources for ideas. Officials submit information composed as they would like to have him use it. Prof. Moley, top speech-making adviser, generally submits texts on several subjects. Occasionally Prof. Frankfurter also is called upon for suggestions. (They never appear at the executive office, but always at the White House proper.)

After getting all these together, Mr. Roosevelt retires to his room in the White House (not his office) and dictates the first draft of what he wants to say. He works over it two or three times. Congressional leaders and departmental heads are called in to see and correct what pertains to their affairs.

Advice

Before the message was delivered, the congressional crowd almost unanimously advised Mr. Roosevelt against trying to go any further toward the left now. They said it was dangerous not only economically but politically. They wanted him to lay heavily on the prosperity motif.

Also they wanted him to hit the economy angle hard. They thought it would cut ground from under the opposition.

In fact, the house leaders began to make preparations a week ago to smoke up their side of the economy issue at the earliest possible moment. They arranged things so that the best-looking government supply bill would come up the very first week.

Somersaulting

Flip-flops performed by some of the Democratic congressmen during the recess will become apparent in a few days when they start talking in public. To wit:

A well known southern senator was stopped in a public place by a newsman the other day. He was a leader against new deal bills last session, denouncing brain trusters, etc. The newsman asked what he thought about Mr. Roosevelt now.

The senator looked around to see if anyone was listening. Noting that many were, he said in a loud voice that he thought Mr. Roosevelt was a great man. Still louder, he proclaimed that the secret of Mr Roosevelt's greatness was that "the President is a man with a heart for the masses." He beat his heart vigorously with his hand to illustrate his point.

Caution

The President puts off writing his speeches as long as possible. However, that is not the reason why texts are seldom given to the press until a few hours before he begins to speak. The explanation for that is advance copies generally find their way into the hands of political opponents if given out earlier.

Vexed

Mr Roosevelt was irked personally by the talking done by his Democratic congressional leaders during and after their Philippine junket. He remarked to a friendly caller the other day that Garner alone kept his thoughts to himself.

The mutual confidence and respect between the President and the vice president appears to have been strengthened even beyond the bonds existing last session.

Notes

Democratic Floor Leader Bankhead has an understanding with the leaders that he will not do much active leading on the floor. His health will not permit it. He will handle backstage work mostly. The house will continue to be run by Speaker Byrns and Rules Chairman O'Connor.

Chief Justice Hughes is understood to have turned down the proposal of newsmen to appoint a man from their group to handle the new press relations job of the court.

The financial report of the Liberty League shows it spent $85 for towels during last year, which will undoubtedly start an argument as to how clean its business is.

More than one-third of the Liberty League income (exactly $150,581.33) came from Wilmington, Del., where the du Ponts reside.

Sleuth Edgar Hoover made a brief guest talk on a radio amateur hour the other night. In the subsequent voting, he received 350 votes as an amateur.

A new deal publicity man is explaining that the real reason Mr. Roosevelt wanted to talk about the state of the Union at night was to cure national insomnia.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Jan. 4, 1926.

A Washington dispatch reported "congress came back to work today with a chip on its shoulder." It was expected that difficulties would develop in putting through some of President Coolidge's program.

M. L. Verburg, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., reported that development of women's work in the Y under the supervision of a paid secretary, would be one of the major objects of the association here during 1926.

Resolutions pledging moral and active support of the new mayor, Earl Hazen, and commending the record of Rev. M. L. Buckley, former mayor, were adopted at a meeting of the Marion County Ministerial association.

Miss Alice Knoch, blind Marion girl, left for Chicago to enter the Moody Bible institute. Miss Knoch, who had completed several business courses, planned to train for a career as instructor in religious education in a school for the blind. Her expenses were being paid by a group of philanthropic Marion business men.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, Jan. 4, 1916.

Steady progress was being made by Russian forces in a great offensive movement in southern Galicia.

President Wilson, upon his return to Washington, started on steps to immediately centralize responsibility for all illegal submarine warfare.

Prosecuting Attorney Homer E. Johnson was called upon to straighten out a mixup in Claridon township where there were two school boards, each claiming to have been legally elected.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wiseman of Ballentine avenue.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ross E. Campbell of Pearl street.

The Tally War club gave its annual New Years dance, attended by 23 couples.

City council made appropriations for the first six months of the year. The total was $55,501. President S. M. Court, in starting the session, requested that there be no smoking during the meetings. He also announced that an effort would be made to prevent long sessions.

New York Notes

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—This will be another of those aimless, wandering and runaway columns. It always is when I have to sit a half hour without the slightest mental twitch. Frequently it has the unexpectedness of a table tipping experiment. Sit a long while, then buckity-buckity.

There's a reason for drawing this mental blank. Morpheus was coy last night. I counted sheep, read Hiawatha, downed a hot glass of milk and lolled around in a tepid bath. But just as I'd feel myself slipping away I would be swimming again in the wide-eyed frisk of goldfish.

At 4 a. m. I yanked trousers over my pajamas, muffled into a great coat and drifted a couple of blocks east to one of those back-room neighborhood places. It was drained of the usual bustle. The bandy-legged man-of-all-work was cleaning up the ice box.

A flotsam madam, trying to look maidenly with wilchy bangs like Helen Morgan's, was dawdling over a flat beer and reading a tabloid. The bartender was checking up the cash register. After a Scotch appraisal I ordered a round for the house and a hot lemonade for myself.

Madam pondered over what she would drink. She had been beering it up, she explained, since early evening and if I didn't mind she'd have a stiff old fashioned and go on to her flat around the corner. Bandy Legs' choice was a beer and the bartender held aloft a glare tucked it, pencil-like, behind his ear to drop in the box again.

There's a touch of the forlorn about a drinking den with the tide out. A hoppy sour aroma, like the dry sad smell of lysol at a work-house. *Most cordiality after mid-*night is false. Madam told a music hall joke and looked hopefully into her emptied glass. While turning up my coat collar before opening the side door to depart, I heard the bar man say: "One of the Sutton Place crowd." I felt distinguished.

* * *

A block away a knot of people and a stalled car. A half dozen peering into the lifted hood. Nowhere does an auto breakdown attract a crowd as in New York. In the back seat a bright and rouged blonde had curled up and was relaxing with deep cigaret inhales. The clerkly-looking owner tinkered here and there, glancing at his wrist watch and perspiring freely. One gained an impression somehow he was in a more than ordinary dilemma. The frequent watch-glancing was the give-away. He knew he should be somewhere he was not as the sky crumbled into pink. I wondered if it might not be his first night out with the usual indiscretion.

Another block and a pair of hotel detectives I know. Both derbied, whiffing whacking George Jessel cigars and sporting conspicuous lodge buttons. In unison they wanted to know what I was about at such an hour and there were quick, knowing glances at my floppy house slippers and uncollared neck. Strange how we look upon almost everybody out of routine with suspicion in the sliding shadows of night. And I had the uncomfortable feeling I should explain. But a taxi careened up with a silk-hatted morning jag. I moved off before he had a chance to waltz with me. Anytime, day or night, drunks will try to hell me around in a waltz.

It is the first time I had seen or at least noticed the spindly rubber-tired milk wagons. Like props in a musical comedy scene. Too, no yelling among the drivers such as used to make dawns hideous. In spick white uniforms they suggested internes. On a lonely, gloomy stretch of 48th street two spinster types, grim and sleepy-eyed I thought somehow of the Bronte sisters crossing the foggy moors on the way to Haworth.

Inflation Issue Takes Form as Congress Convenes.

BY DELOS FRANCIS,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Sundry economists and assorted political prognosticators have been posting notices hither and yon for more than a year reading "Inflation Ahead!"

The flood of pamphlets, [illegible] speeches and editorial comment on inflation has been especially marked since Jan. 31, 1934, when President Roosevelt devalued the dollar and the United States treasury proceeded some two billions.

If the complex problem of inflation can be stated simply, means, essentially, more money but higher prices.

This week the subject suddenly took more tangible form when the convening of congress. Some forecasters warningly cited two factors which might make for [illegible] inflation, cash payment of soldiers' bonus and refinancing of farm indebtedness. The one would cost, on the statement of the veterans' organizations, less than one billion dollars; the other, under the terms of the Frazier-Lemke bill, some three billions.

A 50-cent Dollar

Leonard P. Ayres, the economist-commentator of industry, Cleveland, predicted this week that inflation was "inevitable" due to the 41-cent cut in the gold content of the dollar. He did not say, however, that inflation necessarily would prove disastrous to the nation's currency system, as some other economists have contended.

Passage at this session of congress of a bonus bill in some form appeared more or less certain as legislators met on Capitol Hill, to the relief of senators and representatives up for re-election. The fate of the Frazier-Lemke bill was in the lap of the gods, but some commentators linked it closely with the supreme court's forthcoming ruling on the AAA. The administration, incidentally, stood ready to support legislation if AAA receives a setback.

Thorny as was the bonus problem, congress at the outset faced another. That was a neutrality law to supplant the one expiring Feb. 29. The nub of the projected squabble was whether to make mandatory on the President the duty of neutrality, or give him discretion.

As congress met, the first phase of the Roosevelt social security program began functioning—the one per cent tax on payrolls to raise funds for unemployment insurance.

A Free Bed Rejected

Sen. Borah, daring to flaunt the unwritten law of politics to poach on the preserves of a favorite son, gave ground this week on first pages to another presidential spooned warrior.

"Alt right!" the brown-derbied Al Smith was wont to say in the heat of the 1928 campaign, "let's look at the record!" This week he rephrased the remark. Senator and Mrs. Roosevelt engaged in a long distance colloquy over the many times he had been invited to the White House. He declined the offer of a White House bed when he visits Washington on Jan. 25 to criticize the new deal under the auspices of the American Liberty league.

Then, again, he is likely to say "Let's look at the record." Democrat and Republican alike pondered how emphatic he would make that line in the forthcoming presidential campaign.

Smith was not alone in rejecting the proffer of a bed. Mrs. Eugene Talmadge, wife of the governor of Georgia, an arch-foe of Roosevelt, did too.

Erasing Party Lines

Borah made two bold moves considered to contests for delegates in Illinois, the home state of another presidential aspirant, Frank Knox, and in Ohio, labor sanctuary of the Republican party leadership for the June convention in Cleveland.

But more significant than the impending squabble over Borah nination was the likelihood that in the presidential election there would cut across party lines, but calcitrant elements in the two parties have forecast as much.

The 1936 presidential campaign on which Mr. Roosevelt last week sounded the Democratic keynote bids fair to be a tussle not on traditional party issues but on diametrically opposed philosophies of government, complicated by such politico-economic oddities as Townsendism.

A JOHN CHAPMAN DE

The popular notion of John Chapman, better known as "Johnny Apple Seed", is that he did nothing for property and never acquired title to a single foot of real estate. There is a deed on record in Knox county, however, that proves Chapman owned land in Mt. Vernon. The deed, which bears the date 1828 and is filed in Richland county as his residence at the time. It gives his occupation as "gatherer and planter of apple seeds."

It is believed he held an option, at least, on other real estate in Mount Vernon in the latter years of his life. Chapman purchased other lots in Mt. Vernon, which he said belonged to him and that he would return some day to collect them. He never did.

or its expansion and lies back waiting for the outcome of the November elections there will be danger of such a relapse as may cause the incumbent administration to insist that only further governmental steps can save the situation from growing worse

The unemployment rolls must be reduced in 1936 The new deal has plenty to answer for especially the mounting relief costs in the face of more employment The campaign can be fought on many other issues besides the intangible question of whether recovery came because of or in spite of governmental action The questions underlying the coming campaign are whether the recovery attained thus far is to continue because government will permit the breathing spell to be extended or whether recovery is to be impeded by further adventure in government spending and by competition with private business

Business has a big job to do in 1936 It must incidentally learn to discount the effect of the elections and get itself in shape for the problems of 1937 and 1938 when rigid economies by government will be forced no matter who is in power and when the danger of social upheaval will really come if the unemployed have not been absorbed or if prices have skyrocketed due to lack of faith in the dollar

The trend of the country is toward liberal conservatism — not radicalism The Literary Digest poll shows it The southern primaries next spring will confirm it The election in November of a congress of non radical. In the north and south would seem to be assured irrespective of how the top of the ticket goes
